DAILY GAZETTE.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—Miss Smiley, the preacheress, is writing a long "Commentary on the Life of Joshua."

—Pennsylvania day at the Centennial promises to be one of the grandest "blowouts" of the year.

—There are thirty tons of fireworks on the Centennial grounds awaiting the festivities incident to Pennsylvania Day.

—Bret Harte wants some of the New York critics to knock that chip off his shoulder, and they haven't the heart to do it.

—Ladies bet on horse races at Saratoga. When they lose a hundred dollars they cry so softly and beautifully that the winner refunds it.

—A reporter of the Cincinnati Commercial has been around among business men and they all reported to him that the skies were brightening.

—Free Press: These are glorious mornings. The man who rises with the sun and sees fifteen or twenty cats walking atop of the dew-spangled yard fences, gets a true glimpse of nature.

—A barber on Federal street yesterday shaved a customer without asking him if he didn't want his head shampooed, his hair dyed and his whiskers curled, and he burst a blood vessel on account of it.

—The remains of the oldest in point of continuous service, and one of the most venerable and beloved of our city ministers, were laid to rest in the cemetery yesterday. "Though being dead he yet speaketh."

—The dainty young man who, while bowing adieux to a young lady he had just put into an omnibus, stepped on a banana peel and sat down on the pavement, has started for the Black Hills.

—When Beecher puts on the gloves Moulton backs out of the ring, and when Moulton aims for the fray, Beecher is engaged elsewhere. It is as pretty a piece if "one's afraid and the other daren't" as was ever played.

—The suicide mania seems to have become epidemic hereabouts. Five attempts to "shuffle" within two days, some of which resulted fatally, indicate that life has lost its charms to some people, and that the ills they know not of, have less terrors than those which are known.

—Stand back gentlemen—sewing machine and life insurance agents—stand back. That itinerant photographer who held a woman's baby as security the other day, until she could raise half a dollar to pay for its picture takes the front rank.

—Rev. Henry Ward Beecher preached in Morrison's Grand Opera House at Toronto Sunday night. The house was full several hours before the commencement of the services, and a few cases of bodily injury were reported in consequence of the rush.

—A British journal pays this pretty compliment to an American bard: "Aldrich says: 'As wild as the winds that tear the curled red leaf in the air, is the song that I have never sung.' The man who knows a song like that, and nobly [illegible] like way, "I have no vote this Fall," replied the gentleman addressed, with a smile. It was Governor Hayes.

—Two Strike made a ten strike in telling the truth when he told the Commission: "The reason we are afraid to touch the pen and are silent before you is because we have been deceived so many times before. If we knew the words you tell us were true we would be willing to sign each day."

—A very modest young lady, who wanted a pair of garters, addressed the shopman thus: "It is my desire to obtain a pair of circular elastic appendages, capable of being contracted or expanded by means of oscillating burnished steel appliances that sparkle like particles of gold leaf set with Alaska diamonds, and which are utilized for retaining in proper position the habiliments of the lower extremities, which innate delicacy forbids me to mention."

—It comes a little rough at first, but Chas. Francis Adams thinks he is getting used to it nicely. John Morrissey has written him a letter of congratulation and declarations of fraternity, signed with his X, and John Kelly punching him in the ribs with the dirtiest thumb Charles Francis ever saw, said, "Ah, Charlie boy, this is a bad ould scald on us, this catchin' ould Tweed, eh? Well, never mind; kape a stiff upper lip, an' we will get thru all right, ye mind that." And the agonizing efforts of Charles Francis to look as though he were one of "us" are said to terrify people passing along the next block.—Hawkeye.

—They were interesting, of course, for Mr. Huxley handles English like a master, and is painstaking and enthusiastic in his business. But they added scarcely a word to our knowledge of his subject. Every intelligent man who had read the arguments in favor of evolution so far, failed to get anything new from Mr. Huxley. Evolution is a scientific fancy, a sort of scientific poetical dream. It will be many a year before sufficient facts to raise it from a mere hypothesis to a scientific theory are gathered. But Mr. Huxley, who has largely developed in him the poetical faculty, with the precision of the man of science and the zeal of a reformer, knows how to interest an audience. He is an artist in the use of words and the presentation of facts.—New York Sun.

THE FIELD OF POLITCS.

The Republican Campaign in Indiana.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., September 26.—The attendance at the Battle-ground to-day was very large. Ten thousand persons were present. There was speaking in the Tabernacle, and at the stand on the Battle-ground pro per. Speeches by Messrs. Blaine, Harrison, Booth, Kilpatrick, Goodloe, Robert Sinclaire, Gordon Lee and others, were all listened to attentively. The most interest was manifested in Mr. Blaine's, around whose stand a large crowd congregated. There were excursion trains on all the roads leading into the city. There was a public reception this evening at the residence of Hon. G. S. Orth; also speaking on the public square.

EVANSVILLE, September 26.—Governor Morton spoke at Boonville to-day.

Greenback Convention at Albany, N. Y.

ALBANY, N. Y., September 26.—The so-called Greenback State Convention met to-day, and after appointing several committees, took a recess. Upon re-assembling the temporary officers were made permanent. The resolutions cordially endorse the principles laid down by the Indianapolis Convention, and declare for Cooper and Carey; resolve that there can be no business prosperity unless all property is equally taxed, and therefore demand that Government bonds shall bear their just share of public taxation; resolve that a more just system of laws should be enacted for the regulation of incorporated wealth, so that persons and property shall not be unjustly taxed for being transported over railroads, and investments by savings banks and insurance companies shall afford greater protection to those whose interests they have in charge.

The reading of the resolutions caused considerable excitement, one delegate pronouncing them utterly unworthy of the movement represented by the Convention. Maitland charged that a clique had drawn up the resolutions, and had totally ignored the interests of the laboring men. He was called to order, and the resolutions were finally adopted. Richard Montgomery Griffin, editor of the Albany Evening Post, was nominated for Governor, Thos. Armstrong for Lieutenant Governor, Anthony J. Cuddeback for Canal Commissioner, Marcus M. Dickson for Judge of Appeals and John W. Crump for State Prison Inspector.

THE INDIAN WAR.

Gen. Crook Organizing a New Campaign.

CHEYENNE, WY., September 26.—Col. Stanton, Paymaster United States Army, who commanded the volunteer scouts in General Crook's recent campaign, and Maj. Randall, who commanded the Snake Indians, both returned to this place to-day. The latter goes at once to Sidney to take charge of one hundred Pawnees, who are to go to Otterman and take part in the approaching movement north. Col. Stanton returns with funds to pay off the expedition and northern posts in this department, about sixty companies in all.

Gen. Crook remains at Ft. Laramie, organizing a new campaign against the Indians, and he will not leave the field until the work is done. Fresh troops, consisting of the Fourth Cavalry under Gen. MacKenzie, and infantry under Capt. Pollock, will be put in the field at once. A depot of supply will be established at old Ft. Reno.

The troops of the recent expedition are now at Custar City, under command of Gen. Merritt, and will wait for new supplies of clothing and equipments here. Lieut. Ludwig, of the Third cavalry, and one or two others who were badly wounded, were left at Crook City, in the Black Hills, with a medical officer, and will come out as soon as they can bear removal. The cavalry horses are much worn, and many of them were eaten. At least 500 fresh horses will be required.

FIRST EDITION.

SOME GOSSIP ABOUT LIZST.

A Visit to the Great Pianist.

Remarks on Music in America—The Legend of Saint Cecilia—What is Thought of Theodore Thomas in America.

LOCARNO, LAGO MAGGIORE, September 9.—During the recent musical performances at Bayreuth, Bavaria, Franz Liszt was an object of scarcely less interest to the multitude of visitors than Wagner himself. He was a guest at Wagner's house, and held there—as he does at most places—a little court in which the aristocracy of art and the aristocracy of title found themselves in contact. The composer of the Nibelungen trilogy during those busy and exciting days was almost inaccessible; but his door stood wide open for the throng which sought the apartments appropriated to his illustrious father-in-law. Whether countesses or kapellmeisters claimed the most of Liszt's attention it would perhaps be difficult to say. Both were there in overwhelming numbers, and with them came artists of renown, and ambitious musicians who have yet to win whatever fortune may be in store for them. For the young especially, who showed a real enthusiasm in art, the Abbe always had a smile of welcome and a few words of encouragement.

It was my good fortune to receive a kind message from the maestro one day, with permission to call on him early the next morning. The friend to whom I was indebted for the introduction went with me. A man servant received us at Wagner's door, and led us first into a hall which occupies the whole central part of the house, reaching to the roof, and lighted from above. The rooms in the second story open upon a gallery which runs around the hall at its mid-height. There is no staircase visible. In the middle of the polished floor stands an American piano. In one corner is a pipe organ. Fine marble statuettes of Siegfried, Lohengrin, Tristan and other heroes of Wagner's operas are placed on pedestals around the wall. Passing through this apartment we at the left. Windows at two sides looked upon a shady garden. Across one corner stretched a grand piano. Across another was a long writing-table covered with books, papers, and papeterie in comfortable confusion. A huge writing case in ormolu was open on a stand opposite. If I remember, the remaining corner was filled by a cabinet on which were displayed some of the rich testimonials presented to W[illegible] burnished figure on a dead gold ground. The doorway was concealed by a curtain of purple satin with a delicate white flowered stripe, and the furniture was upholstered with the same material. There was a series of pictures representing scenes from Wagner's works; great mounds of living plants and flowers lifted themselves above the backs of sofas; a silver lamp such as one sees in the sanctuaries of Catholic churches hung from the ceiling, not in the center of the room, but near one of the further corners. Several silver wreaths, with testimonial inscriptions, were exhibited on the cabinet or over the mantel. The general impression created by a first sight of the room was of crowded splendor, not without a certain degree of comfort.

Liszt, who was standing by the table when we entered, received us with great cordiality. There is no need to describe for a number of excellent portraits have made that strongly marked face and that fine head with its long gray hair well known to all the world. Portraits, however, do not reproduce the kindly and genial expression which captivates all who are admitted to his society. When he came forward, in his plain suit of black, with frock coat of slightly clerical cut, and grasped the hands of his visitors, he might have been taken for a gentle old priest receiving his parishioners. He has a simple and hearty manner which puts the stranger immediately at ease. It is the politeness of a thorough man of the world softened by the sincerity of a singularly affectionate and generous disposition. The conversation turned almost immediately upon music in America, and reference was made to the rapid progress of the new school of composers in our large cities, particularly to the popular appreciation of Liszt himself and of Wagner. "Ah," said Liszt, "the fame of Wagner is secure; nothing can shake that; but as for me—" here he smiled and shook his head—"I hope you have not committed yourselves by praising me too highly." We spoke of his Symphonic Poems, and he seemed deeply gratified to learn that the whole series had been performed in New York, although I am told that one of them ("Hamlet") has never been played anywhere else until this season, when it was produced for the first time somewhere in Germany.

A Tribute to Theodore Thomas.

Naturally then we referred to the great work which Theodore Thomas has done in the United States, and I found that Liszt (as indeed I had expected) was familiar with it, and that Thomas is held in no slight esteem in Bayreuth. Mention was made of the performance of the "Dante Symphony" last season, and of the admirably explanatory and illustrative programme which Mr. Dudley Buck prepared for it. "Well," said Liszt, "how was it done?" Our report of course was entirely satisfactory. "And this part," said the maestro, turning around to the piano, and playing a few measures from the portion which follows the fugue, "did they do as well as the rest?" "Yes, it was all a marvelous piece of work." "Good," said he, leaving the piano; "but we are not so far advanced yet in Germany; you do more than we dare attempt. The explanatory programme too!" He showed his gratification with all the frankness of a child. Several other persons had come in during this conversation. There was Pauline Brandt, the favorite contralto of the Berlin opera; there was a young and they tell me an excellent Hungarian pianist, whose name I have forgotten; there was Mr. Francis Korbay, of New York. "Come," said Liszt to Mr. Korbay, "play me this piece of yours," and he took up some sheet music from the piano. Mr. Korbay obeyed, and gave us a charming moroceau, of which I shall only say that it was worthy to be heard in such company. While he played the Abbe sat behind him, and with smiles and gestures continually invited my attention to passages which pleased him. At the close he and repeated—I think from memory—a little of the middle portion, saying, "How good that is!" Then our New York friend was obliged to sing two of his own songs, and the maestro listened with the same sort of approval he had bestowed upon the other piece. There were two fresh copies of Listz's "Legend of St. Cecilia" on the table, apparently just from the press. It is for female voices only—a solo part with final chorus. "Will you try it?" said he to Frl. Brand. So, with a little help now and then from the composer, and the aid of a young lady visitor in the chorus, Frl. Brandt went through the beautiful and poetic work, while Liszt at the piano supplied such an accompaniment as no other man in the world could have played. Soon afterwards we took our leave, the maestro parting from us at the door with kind and gracious words and expressions of his interest in our country. Liszt understands English, but does not like to speak it; he used the English language during our visit.

During the performances at the theater he was always watched with great interest by the audience. He had a seat in the middle of the house, with Mme. Wagner and her family, and during the long intermissions he generally walked on the terrace, or repaired to the restaurant with congenial friends. Wagner was often at the restaurant also in these intervals of repose, in company with his wife and children. A few musical gatherings and receptions took place at the rooms of private persons during the festival, Liszt being almost always the most honored of the guests. At one of these parties he played with our young countryman, Max Pinner, an arrangement for four hands of Wagner's Philadelphia Centennial March. It is the work of Joseph Rubinstein, who had been with Wagner several years as a sort of volunteer amanuensis and pupil, but has lately, I believe, left him. The March is heard a great deal in Germany. The military bands have it, and there are two—perhaps more—transcriptions for the piano-forte. I hear the in the most enthusiastic terms for their enterprise in obtaining such a work and their liberality in paying for it a price which seems to Germany stupendous.

I have mentioned that Theodore Thomas' name was held at Bayreuth in great respect. It is honored far and wide in Germany, for musicians from many parts of the empire have spoken to me about him. In a party of German conductors and performers one day, when the talk was of America, I showed five or six programmes of last summer's concerts at the Central Park Garden, and you would have been amused at the surprise, I may say astonishment, with which they were read. The programme of that Beethoven night in particular on which we had the four overtures to "Fidelio" was discussed with the liveliest admiration. "And pray," said one of the party, the leader of an orchestra in an important German city, "how often did Mr. Thomas give these concerts? As often as once a week?" When I answered every night, they all agreed that in some respects America was far in advance of Germany. What reward the American people have given Thomas for his work I am happy to say they did not ask me.

BLACK HILLS NEGOTIATIONS.

A "Talk" with Sioux at Spotted Tail Agency.

Spotted Tail Recounts the Various Treaties Made and Promises Unfulfilled.

SPOTTED TAIL AGENCY, Neb., September 22, VIA SIDNEY, Neb., September 26.—The first council between the Sioux at the Spotted Tail agency and the full Commission was held this afternoon. Col Boone, as chairman, said: My friends, seven days since we sent down some propositions to you that were submitted to the people at Red Cloud. We have come now to hear your answer and decision.

What Spotted Tail Said.

Spotted Tail said: We have come here to meet you, my friends. We have considered the words you brought us from the Great Father, and I have made up my mind. This is the fifth time words have come to us from the Great Father. At the time the first treaty was made, on Horse Creek, there was a provision made to borrow the over-land road of the Indians, and though I was a boy then, they told me promises were made to last fifty years. These promises have not been kept. The next conference we had was held with General Manydeer, when there were no promises made, but we made friends and shook hands. Then there was the treaty made by General Sherman, General Sanborn and General Harney, when we were told we should have annuities and goods for thirty-five years. They said this, but Did Not Tell the Truth.

At that time Gen. Sherman told me the country was mine, and that I should select any place I wished for my reservation. I said I would take the country from the head of White river to the Missouri. He said they would give us cows to raise cattle, mares to raise horses, and oxen and wagons to haul logs with, and to haul goods and earn money that way. He said, also, that there should be issues of such things as we needed to learn the arts with, and besides that, money to every one. He told us each of us should have fifteen dollars for an annuity; but I told them that was a bad amount, that we did not understand money, and that it should be twenty dollars to each one, and he assented to that. He told me these things should be carried out, and for me to go to the mouth of the Whitestone and locate my people and these things should be fulfilled to me. But it was not one. When these promises failed to be carried out I went myself to see the Great Father, and went into his house and told him these things. The Great Father told me to go home, select any place in my country and choose my home, and go there to live with my people. I came home, selected this place and moved here. They told me that if I would move here I should receive fulfillment of the promises made me. But was some very small cows and some old wagons that were worn out. Again last summer you came to talk about the country, and we said we would leave it to the Great Father for him to settle. In reply to that he has sent you out this summer. You have come to visit our land, and we now ask you how many years there are for us to live. My friends, you who sit before me are traders and merchants. You have come here to trade. You have not come here to turn anything out of the way without payment for it. When a man has a possession that he values, and another party comes to buy it, he brings with him such good things as he wishes to purchase it with. My friends, your people have both intellect and heart. You use these to consider in what way you do the best to live. My people, who are here before you, are precisely the same. I see that my friends before me are men of age and dignity, and men of that kind have good judgment, and consider well what they do. I infer from that you are here to consider well what shall be good for my people for a long time to come. I think each of you have selected somewhere a good piece of land for himself, with an intention to live on it, that he may there raise his children. My people are not different. They also live upon the earth and upon things that come to them from above. We have the same thoughts and desires in that respect that the white people have. This is the country where they were born, where they have acquired all their property, their children and their horses. You have come here to buy this country of us, and it would be well if you would come with goods you purpose to give us, and to put them out of your hands, so that we can see the goods and price you propose to pay for it. Then our hearts would be glad. My people have grown up together with these white men who have married into our tribe. A great many of us have learned to speak their language, and our children are with them in our school, and we want to be considered all one people with them.

A Message to the Great Father.

My friends, when you go back to the Great Father I wish you to tell him to send us goods, send us yokes, oxen, and give us wagons, so that we can earn money by hauling goods from the railroad. This seems to me to be a very hard day. Half our country is at war, and we have come upon very difficult times. This war did not spring up here in our land. It was brought upon us by the children of the Great Father, who came to take our land from us without price, and who do a great many evil things. The Great Father and his children are to blame for this trouble. We have here a storehouse to hold our provisions, but the Great Father sends us very little provisions to put in our storehouse, and when our people become displeased with our provisions and have gone north to hunt, the children of the Great Father are fighting them. It has been our wish to live here peaceably. But the Great Father has filled it with soldiers, who think only of our death. Some of our people who have gone from here in order that they may have a change, and others who have gone north to hunt, have been attacked by soldiers from this direction, and when they have got north have been attacked by soldiers from the other direction, and now when they are willing to come back the soldiers stand between them, and keep them from coming home. It seems to me there is than this. When people come to trouble it is better for both parties to come together without arms, talk it over and find some peaceful way to settle. You have mentioned to me two countries. The Missouri river country I know. When we were there we had a great deal of trouble. I left hundreds more people buried there. The other country I have never seen, but I agree to go and look at it with thirty of my young men. When this trouble commenced the Great Father stopped the sale of ammunition, which has caused great suffering to my people, notwithstanding we are all sincere to do what is good for our people. My friend (pointing to Gen. Vandevere), you are a wise man. When you were here last Spring you told me you would keep me. I want you to do it.

Swift Bear then said they would consider the matter until to-morrow. The propositions were read for the second time and interpreted, and the council adjourned till morning.

The Treaty Concluded.

SPOTTED TAIL AGENCY, Neb., September 23.—The treaty with the Indians of this agency was concluded this evening, after a three hours' council. Spotted Tail made another lengthy speech, in which he insisted upon going down to the Indian Territory first and look at the country, then go to Washington, talk with the Great Father, and touch the pen at some time. He also wished to delay signing the treaty until the present war was satisfactorily and peacefully settled. He said: I wish to have two men help me—one is the chief minister (pointing to Bishop Whipple) and the other Rev. Hinman—to settle the matter. You have the words of the Great Spirit, and you try to live according to his will. You know this war trouble does not please the Great Spirit, and I want you to help it out.

Baptist Good said: A white minister (Episcopalian) has come here to teach us, but I don't think it's done properly. I would like to have some female ministers come dressed in black clothes, to receive the girls in one house and teach them, and have white male ministers in black hat and coat, and take the boys to another house and teach them properly. These ministers I want to take the names of things sent to us, and when they come to see that they are all there.

A Pipe of Peace.

Blue Teeth, Spotted Tail's father-in-law, wanted to know who was the one to carry their words to the Great Father, and upon solicitation, Gen. Gaylord being pointed out, handed him a handsomely decorated pipe and tobacco pouch, which he said the Great Spirit had given him. He told Gaylord to present it to the Great Father at Washington as from a man he heard speak at the council, and ask the Great Father to be merciful to the Indians and pity them and help them, and to let them remain in their own country.

Speeches were made by several other Indians and by Judge Gaylord, Col. Boone and Bishop Whipple, but the Indians were still undecided, when Spotted Tail arose and left the council room. While outside, E. W. Raymond, a white man living with Spotted Tail's people for the last twenty-seven years, told him if he did not sign the treaty Red Cloud would get ahead of him and derive all the advantages to be had from the treaty. Raymond then went to Red Cloud and Red Dog, of the Red Cloud Agency, who were outside of the council room, and told them to go in and urge Spotted Tail and his people to sign. They did so, made short and effective speeches, and then withdrew, whereupon Two Strike said: The reason we are afraid to touch the pen and are silent before you is because we have been deceived so many times before. If we knew the words you tell us were true we would be willing to sign each day.

Then Spotted Tail addressed his people, saying: If our friends up above (referring to the Red Cloud Agency) had not signed the treaty I would help them in holding out, but as our friends up there have signed, I ask all good men who are trustworthy to come up and sign it.

Half an hour later the necessary signatures were attached and the treaty was made. The Indians here all want the military agent removed and Howard reinstated.

THE SPORTING WORLD.

The Races at Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, September 26.—There was a fair crowd and fair sport at the races to-day. The first race, mile heats for beaten horses, had four starters. The first heat was won by Mayflower, Grit second, and Bowman third. The second heat was won by Grit, Mayflower second and Bowman third. The last heat was won by Grit. Time 1:46, 1:45 and 1:50.

The second race, a handicap, all ages, dash of one mile and a half, winners excluded, was won by Kinsmore by a spurt, Laura G. second and Eaglet third. Time 2:40¼.

The third race, Galt House stake, three year olds, was won by Harry Hill in two heats, Patriot second and Vissman Leamington third. In both heats the others were Russ, Butler and Pomona. Time 3:41¾ and 3:42¼.

CENTENNIAL NOTES.

Great Preparations for Pennsylvania Day—Business to be Suspended in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, September 26.—The Centennial Commission were in executive session to-day, examining the last list of awards.

Rain fell heavily here during the early part of the day, but this afternoon it was clear and pleasant. Notwithstanding the bad weather of the morning, the attendance at the Exposition was very large. The utmost interest is taken by all classes in the preparations for Pennsylvania day (Thursday), and the indications are that the crowds in attendance at the Exposition will far surpass those of any other day. The day will be generally observed as a holiday. Business places will close, newspapers suspend publication, and every opportunity and encouragement given for employes to visit the Centennial grounds.

Fatal Quarrel.

ERIE, PA., September 26.—A special from Youngsville gives an account of a fatal quarrel between two neighbors, named Huntley and Root, at Lottsville. The dispute was concerning a job of threshing. Huntly attacked Root with a pitchfork. The latter defended himself by throwing a stone, which struck Huntley on the head. He went into the house, lay down on a lounge, and died soon after.

THE BEAVER ROBBERY.

Berry Dies of His Injuries—No Clue Yet to the Murderer.

An account was published in the GAZETTE, yesterday morning, of a daring highway robbery and probable murder that occurred near Beaver on Monday. Yesterday the man Berry died, the assault resulting, as it was expected to do, in a murder. The deed was committed with stones, and Berry was so terribly beaten as to be almost unrecognizable.

Up to last evening no trace of the murderer had been obtained. The detectives are of the opinion that he did not come back to this city, and rather incline to the belief that he took a train for the West, in which direction he was going when he committed the deed.

Officer McIntyre, of the Allegheny police yesterday morning arrested a man in that city who answered the discription of Berry's murderer, and conveyed him to the lockup. He was apparently in straitened circumstances, and was slightly intoxicated. He stated that his name was J. O'Connell, and that he was a newspaper reporter, having last worked on a Girard, Pa. paper. He was on his way to Philadelphia where he expected to get a situation, having formerly been employed on papers there. After an examination the authorities became convinced that his story was correct, and let him go.

The U. S. Steamer Franklin at Vigo, Spain.

"BOSS" TWEED SURPRISED AT HER MISSION.

Another Massacre of Christians by Turks.

TURKEY.

The Peace Negotiations.

BELGRADE, September 26.—The various diplomatic agents presented dispatches to Prince Milan announcing the suspension of hostilities, and that the peace conditions proposed by the powers recommended maintenance of the status quo ante bellum in regard to Servia.

The Servian Government has given formal notice to all its military commanders of the prolongation of the suspension of hostilities.

The Proclamation of Royalty.

The Russian Consul, in an interview with Prince Milan, pointed out that Europe regarded the proclamation of the army declaring him King with displeasure, and advised him to summon General Tchernayeff to Belgrade and explain to him that acceptance of the royal title would cause fresh complications. The Austrian Consul asked for explanations concerning Gen. Tchernayeff's proclamation. Prince Milan replied that he was endeavoring to arrange the matter in a manner showing due consideration for the feelings of the army, whose support was absolutely necessary to him. He said Gen. Tchernayeff and his army adhered to the proclamation despite the dissuasions of the War Minister. He added that a definite resolution concerning the proclamation would be taken when the War Minister returned from camp.

Relief for Bulgarians.

CONSTANTINOPLE, September 26.—The Porte has telegraphed its representatives abroad that it has sent the destitute Bulgarians 18,000 Turkish pounds, and taken measures for the speedy rebuilding of their villages.

The conce[illegible] recently granted by China for increasing the facilities for intercourse between the Government and foreign representatives are to be fulfilled, the judicial system relative to foreigners improved, and the commercial grievances rectified. Eching city, on the Yangtze river, and three other ports are opened to foreign commerce. The convention will be signed shortly.

SPAIN.

"Boss" Tweed.

VIGO, September 26.—The U. S. steamer Franklin arrived here this morning. Tweed was much surprised when told that the Franklin was to take him to the United States. He had hoped on arriving in Cuba to be able, through the assistance and influence of friends, to avoid being surrendered to the American authorities. He expressed great disappointment at the new aspect of affairs. On the arrival of the Franklin, Mr. Adee, Acting Minister of the United States, instead of Gen. Cushing, went on board and conferred with her commander in reference to the proposed transfer of Tweed and Hunt to the Franklin. The intention is to remove the prisoners from their present quarters to the steamer this evening. During their confinement in Castello Del Castro, Tweed and Hunt were kept in separate rooms, closely guarded, and not allowed to communicate with each other. The Captain General issued strict orders that no one should be allowed to speak to them. Mr. Adee has been warned that Tweed might make away with himself rather than return to New York. The commander of the Franklin has therefore been instructed to keep him strictly confined, and leave him no opportunity to jump overboard.

LONDON, September 26.—A dispatch from Madrid says the United States steamer Franklin will take Tweed and Hunt on board this week.

Ex-Queen Isabella.

General Anthony Vindicated.

TOPEKA, KAS., September 26.—General George T. Anthony, candidate for Governor read a sworn statement, substantiated by documents, to the Republican State Committee to-day, totally denying and disproving the charges against him. The statement was so conclusive and the proof so positive, that the committee passed resolutions characterizing it as a complete vindication, and requesting a copy for publication, with the documentary proof. General Anthony had an ovation at the Opera House to night, when he made a speech.

Marine Disaster.

NEW YORK, September 26.—The steamer Liberty, from Havana, was abandoned at sea in the gale of the 17th inst., and foundered. The crew was taken off by a schooner, and brought to Philadelphia.

THE CAMPAIGN.

Local Political Notes—Doings In and About the City.

The employes of Lewis, Oliver & Phillips, Twenty-eighth ward, South Side, met Monday evening at the company's works and organized a Hayes and Wheeler marching club. Eighty names were enrolled, and it is expected that over forty more will join this evening, after which a Welsh Glee club will be organized under the direction of Daniel D. Davis.

The East End Republican marching club have changed the style of their uniforms from blue blouses and blue caps and lanterns to white oil cloth uniforms and torches, in order to be in keeping with the uniforms of the other Hayes and Wheeler clubs. The club held its second meeting Monday night, when the roll was increased to one hundred and thirty-three members. Thirty-three members will be a mounted guard.

The Poet "Laureat" John McKee, silenced the guns of a Democratic battery at Sewickley Monday night, by drawing the game away and leaving nothing for the gunners to shoot at. During the progress of a Democratic meeting, as stated above, some mischievous boys improvised a platform and induced John to mount it in the interest of Hayes and Wheeler, and it was but a few minutes until John had the crowd and the speaker and officers were left alone at the other meeting.

The Republican conferees of the Twenty-fourth Congressional district reassembled at the Monongahela House yesterday to nominate a candidate for Congress. After balloting until the sixtieth ballot was reached the conference adjourned to meet at ten o'clock this morning.

The Democratic conferees from the Twenty-first district, after reaching the 105th ballot, yesterday, without agreeing upon a man, adjourned to meet at the St. Charles Hotel, this city, on Friday, October 6th, to conclude their labors.

The Republican voters of the Seventh and Tenth wards, Allegheny, and Reserve township will meet at Staehle's saloon, No. 186 Spring Garden avenue, this evening at 7½ o'clock, for the purpose of organizing a marching club.

The Fifth ward, Allegheny, Junior and Senior Hayes and Wheeler Marching clubs are very proud of the flags presented them on Monday evening at Mrs. Bentel's millinery store, on Manhattan street. The flags were gotten up by Mrs. Curett, Mrs. Bentel, Mrs. Bardoner and Miss E. Cavett, ladies of the ward, who, though deprived from voting, are doing all in their power to advance the good cause.

The Republican meeting at the corner of Stevenson and Forbes street, Sixth ward, last evening, was well attended notwithstanding the unpleasant weather. An organization was effected by calling Mr. Samuel Morrow to the chair, and electing a number of Vice Presidents and Secretaries. Messrs. Jno. S. Lambie, Esq., Jno. S. Robb, Esq., and Mr. J. Vannote addressed the meeting. The several marching clubs of the hill wards turned out and paraded through that portion of the city, making a very fine display.

A grand Republican rally was held at Mansfield last evening. Addresses were delivered by Major A. M. Brown and Jacob F. Slagle, Esq. There was a turn out of the marching clubs and the meeting was a rousing one.

The marching clubs of the Ninth and Tenth wards organized a battalion last evening and elected the following officers: Major—J. A. Mayor; Captains—Company A, James Boyd; Company B, William Van Buren; Company C, J. Beckham.

A Hayes and Wheeler club was formed at the East End Monday evening under the name of the "East End Republican Marching Club," with over one hundred members on the roll. The following officers were elected: President—Colonel W. W. Logan, Vice Presidents—Samuel Crawford, Baird Bayard and R. S. Ferguson. Secretary—James E Rogers. Captain—Dr. P. D. Perchment. First Lieutenant—Martin Scott. Second Lieutenant—A. A. Getty. The club will be fully equipped and ready for marching orders Thursday evening.

The Republican Executive Committee held a meeting yesterday. The reports from sub-committees indicate a thorough organization of the county. The original speeches ordered for distribution by the committee will be at the committee rooms to-day.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1876

PETROLEUM at Antwerp 50f.

BONDS at Frankfort, new 5s, 103½.

GOLD closed in New York yesterday at 110.

TWEED does not relish a return to New York. To him it means imprisonment and shame.

THE Northfield bank robbers have been identified, but fears are entertained that a rescue will be attempted. It will be strange if lynch law should not operate in their cases.

THE Republicans, in the two Congressional districts embraced in this city and Allegheny, are holding large and vigorous meetings daily, and the enthusiasm reminds of the war times.

THE Allegheny Mail has hoisted the names of HAYES and WHEELER at its mast head, and will now do service for the entire ticket. It has shown its independence and fairness by fully considering the situation, and acting in the light of matured convictions of duty. The Mail is being ably edited, and is capable of doing very effective service for the ticket. We extend our congratulations for the course it has determined to take.

THE eastern cities are sending donations to Savannah, Georgia, the city that is now scourged by yellow fever. It is suffering terribly, and appeals for aid have come from the stricken people, to those of the North to help them in their distress. The eastern cities have sent liberal donations, and Chicago is moving. Ought not Pittsburgh to do its share in ministering to the needs of the suffering and dying. This is a case in which our Chamber of Commerce could make itself felt.

THE Democratic roughs in South Carolina are drilling, as military companies, preparatory to election. It is understood, however, that United States troops are to be stationed in that State, ready to repel any outbreak of violence. It is an outrage that the Federal Government should be thus compelled to interfere in an affair of the kind, but so bold and violent have Southern Democrats become that nothing but the most effective interference on the part of the Federal Government will avail.

THE judgment of the press and people having been declared that TILDEN's defense of his income tax matters is defective, his disciples have adopted the tactics of insinuating against all others, on that point. It was certainly a shrewd dodge, but the people are quite apt to reach the logical idea that no matter what others may have done, Mr. TILDEN is a Reform candidate for the Presidency, and it does matter what he has done. On the facts his defense will not stand; and hence he is condemned. To be a Reformer of the Government, a man should be honest with the Government.

CONANT AND TILDEN.

The Democratic platform and TILDEN's letter of acceptance repeatedly insinuate that the Government, under Republican management, has failed to live within its income. Says the platform, "we denounce the improvidence which in eleven years of peace, has taken from the people in Federal taxes, thirteen times the whole amount of the legal tender notes, and squandered four times their sum in useless expense, without accumulating any reserve for their redemption." Says TILDEN, in his letter of acceptance, on the same subject, "There is no necromancy in the operations of Government. The homely maxims of every-day life are the best standards of its conduct. A debtor who should promise to pay a loan out of surplus income, yet be seen every day spending all he could lay his hands on in riotous living, would lose all character for honesty and veracity." After this insinuation, he offers his remedy, as follows: Of the public debt nine hundred and eighty-five millions bear interest at six per cent. in gold, and seven hundred and twelve millions at five per cent. in gold. The average interest is 5·58 per cent. A financial policy which should secure the highest credit, wisely availed of, ought gradually to obtain a reduction of one per cent. in the interest of most of the loans. A saving of one per cent. on the average would be seventeen millions a year in gold. That saving regularly invested at four and a half per cent. would, in less than thirty-eight years, extinguish the principal." This is the Democratic side of the Finance question. It charges the Republican party with squandering the revenues, and affirms that a policy that will increase our credit, and enable us to fund our debt at a lower rate of interest is our only way out of debt. So much for that.

CHARLES F. CONANT has, for many years been Assistant, and at times Acting Secretary of the Treasury, and is thoroughly familiar with the financial operations of the Government, besides having the official figures at command. He furnishes an answer to the points above made, showing that what TILDEN and his party recommend has formed the precise policy of the Republican party. In other words, Republicans have been successfully doing precisely what he claims, in the interest of Reform should be done. To live within one's means, as applied to a Government, involves having a surplus that can be applied to its debts. Mr. CONANT shows that from August 31, 1865, when our National debt reached its highest limit, to March 1, 1869,—near the end of JOHNSON's administration, the reduction was $230,968,331.42. From the latter date to June 30, 1876,—seven years of GRANT's administration, the debt was reduced $426,023,915.02. Total, since August 1, 1865, $656,992,246.44. This certainly looks like living within one's means. But while reducing its debt, at an unprecedented rate, the Government did not keep its expenses up to the high standard that had been attained during the war. In 1866, the outlay was $520,809,416.99. In 1876 those expenditures had been reduced to $258,459,767.33,—or less than half what they were ten years ago. The average annual reduction of expense has been $23,849,956.42. Yet with all this decrease of expenditures, there have been since 1866, additions to the expenditures of $12,652,043.34 for pensions, $2,719,593.61 for Indians, and $25,901,412.24,—the latter amount nearly all being expended on the Southern States, in giving them mail and other governmental facilities. Yet with all this the reduction is as above stated. Thus if the steady curtailment of expense is an evidence, the Republican party has fully complied with the demand for economy. This economy of expense indicates another fact,—the reduction of taxation. While all the revenues of the Government under the system of protective tariffs is not derived from direct taxation, yet the taxes levied have been reduced since the war, an amount estimated at $309,350,171. Thus the debt has been reduced, the expenses of the Government curtailed, and taxation decreased. This is more than TILDEN offers in the name of reform; and yet it has been done by the Republican party without parade or flourish.

Referring to the allegation that the Government has squandered four times the amount of the legal tender issue out of thirteen times that amount collected, Mr. CONANT shows, that thirteen times the amount of legal tender issue has not been collected since the war, by $995,327,198, and that its expenditures, aside from the debt, included,—to pay all the expenses of the Government for eleven years, army, navy, Congress, the civil list, Indians, foreign intercourse, including the purchase of Alaska and the largely multiplied expenses of the Government in handling its debt, collecting its revenues, &c.,—only $1,298,808,436.01, which, it will be noticed, is less than the amount alleged to have been squandered by $179,668,475 99. Thus the statement of TILDEN on that subject is simply false. As to squandering money, the figures show that the highest per centage of loss ever known to the Government, was made in MARTIN VAN BUREN's day, and the least per centage of loss, under President GRANT. Under VAN BUREN it was $11.71 per $1,000; and under GRANT 34 cents per $1,000. Thus that charge goes under.

As to the credit of the Government, and the refunding of the debt at a lower rate of interest, Mr. CONANT shows, 1. That under the administration of BUCHANAN, and in time of peace, the Government ran behind $47,989,523.62 in its current expenses; 2. These deficiencies had to be met, and the Government, to protect its credit, and to provide for current disbursements, authorized the issue of bonds and Treasury notes to the amount of $68,425,900. At that period the credit of the Government was such that of the $10,000,900 notes of 1860 issued, $4,840,000 were placed at a discount equivalent to 12 per centum interest, the rest of the loan at various rates from 6 to 11 per centum. The bonds of February, 1861, amounting to $18,415,000, were sold at a discount of $2,019,776.10, or, in other words, the Government received only $89 10 for a five per cent. bond, the face value of which was $100. 3. The present credit of our country stands unparalleled in its history. The bonds of the United States are selling at above par in the principal commercial centres of the world. On the 12th of August last the Treasury sold $2,160,000 of the five per cent. bonds which it held in trust for the payment of the judgment of the Court of Alabama Claims at $105.05 in gold for each one hundred dollar bond, and on the 24th of the same month a contract was entered into for placing four and one half per cent. bonds at par in exchange for bonds bearing six per cent. interest.

In closing he recapitulates: Since 1865 the public debt to June 30, 1876, has been decreased $656,992,246.44, and the annual interest charge since 1869 has been reduced $31,285,281, and since 1866 the annual expenditures of the Government have been reduced $262,349,619.66, and Federal taxation more than $300,000,000. Every year since 1866 the Government has not only lived within its income, but has been able to save towards paying its indebtedness an average amount per annum of $56,742,284.20. With a surplus revenue annually accruing and taxation diminishing, the credit of the country, despite an indebtedness of over two thousand millions, has been raised to such an unprecedented point that its four and one-half per cents. are selling rapidly at home and abroad, above par in gold—a satisfactory contrast with the condition of affairs from 1857 to 1861, when the Government, with an indebtedness of less than one hundred millions, was living beyond its income, and to meet current expenses was compelled to issue notes bearing interest equivalent to ½ per cent. per annum, and to sell its six per cent. bonds at a discount of 11 per cent. on their face value. Such is the official and complete refutation of TILDEN's statements. Can the man who could make such erroneous statements as TILDEN has made be worthy of the Presidency?

HOPKINS AND DISCRIMINATION.

The Post appears nervous that we should allude to Mr. HOPKINS' public record with reference to discrimination, and seeks to turn us aside by what is familiarly known as bluff. To draw this down to a fine point, we undertake to say, and can prove, that the bill introduced by Mr. HOPKINS in Congress did not really provide, in a Constitutional manner, for relief from freight discrimination. We criticised it at the time, while commending his probable motives, as inefficient, and as involving a violation of the Constitution of the United States. It was modified at a meeting of the Committee of the Chamber of Commerce that went to Washington, but Mr. HOPKINS insisted on the clause controlling the Pennsylvania Railroad practically. He proposed, and we think he afterward made an argument, affirming the right of Congress to legislate as to a railroad that begins and ends within a State, and over its business when confined within the precincts of a single State. The Committee on Commerce distinctly, at the outset, indicated its disbelief of this doctrine, and the fact that no bill would be reported was just as well known the day the Committee from the Chamber of Commerce went to Washington, as it could possibly be. There was no secret as to the fact that the Committee would not report that bill. It was with this understanding that an investigation was agreed on, the idea of the Committee being, should the case, after investigation, justify, the Committee of Commerce would mature suitable measures of relief. But we do not know any intelligent person who thought Mr. HOPKINS' bill would give relief.

While the Post is at it, suppose it point out just what benefit Mr. HOPKINS' services have been, as regards freight discriminations; and we pledge ourselves to point out some very significant injuries to the interests of our merchants resulting from his course. He admitted in an open meeting, in this city, that while he had earnestly worked, no tangible results followed, and implied that none are likely to follow from this Congress. Were he a strong man, able to aid his constituents, did he need to make this confession? Is it not known that he could have called his bill out of committee and forced it before the House? Why did he not do it, and show the country the enormity of the evils our people complain of? Why did he not make of it a test question before the House? We do not challenge his good will to the cause, nor can the Post challenge that of Messrs. ERRETT and BAYNE. We do challenge the correctness of his measures, and the lack of grip and strength displayed. Of what use is a member who can do nothing for his constituents in a time of need? Mr. HOPKINS had an opportunity to render invaluable service to his constituents, and make for himself a national reputation. What did he accomplish? His best friends can only answer, nothing. We affirm that he had a good opportunity to active, practical results, and was unequal to the emergency. What more is a man who achieves nothing than a block of wood?

POLITICAL NOTES.

MR. BLAINE will devote this week to Ohio, beginning with the Western Reserve.

IT seems that Congressman Hewitt did not steer very close to the truth. A Washington special states that his request for a statement of Governor Tilden's income returns was not refused at all, but that it is now in course of preparation.

HENDRICKS is now unpleasantly reminded of the fact that in 1864 he alluded to Lincoln in a public speech as the "smutty old tyrant in Washington," and called upon the people to "hurl him from political existence." Can a leopard change his spots?

A PRIVATE circular is being circulated among Southern Democrats, warning them against any "loose talk beforehand," reminding them that the South must be made a unit for Tilden at all hazards, and declaring that "the administration has not troops enough to execute their threats."

POLITICAL excitement in Indiana is at fever heat. Mr. Smalley writes to the Tribune that the Central Committee have only to announce a meeting a week or so in advance, and inform the local committee, and when the day arrives the whole neighborhood appears to boil over with patriotism.

TILDEN's patriotism, as Toots would say, is of no consequence. It has been discovered that while he was running away from Union mass meetings, and figuring with McClellan to end the war with a political coup d'etat, he was writing letters to the Secretary of War begging him to give his brother the contract for supplying the army with his extract of coffee. Isn't it a little curious that the great reformer has never been a reformer except where there was money to be made?

THE New York Herald puts it strongly and truly when it says that "the fact is that the war was begun by the Democratic party in the South; that the Southern Democratic leaders were encouraged to begin it by their Northern political allies, and were persuaded to continue it for at least two years after it had become a hopeless struggle by the silly, unpatriotic attitude of many influential Northern Democrats. The Democratic party may therefore be justly held responsible for the expenses which the war entailed, and continues to entail, upon the country, and it is not wise in the Democrats to put forth statements which necessarily recall this fact to the attention of the country."

MR. SMALLEY thus describes in the Tribune the political procession of the period in Indiana: "There are huge wagons built up with boards in pyramidal fashion to make seats for pretty girls dressed in white, and wearing coronets of gilt pasteboard. They represent, of course, the States of the Union. One of these great chariots has a canopy, upon which stands the Goddess of Liberty, holding fast to a young tree that towers up to an astonishing height, and flings out the Stars and Stripes from below its leafy crown. Another wagon contains two or three dozen gray-haired men who voted for Harrison in 1840, and are going to vote for his grandson in 1876. In another there is a glee club of young ladies and gentlemen singing campaign songs to the accompaniment of a cabinet organ and a key-bugle. A little white and blue cotton cloth for drapery, with evergreens, flowers, banners and mottoes, gives a gala look to these processional wagons, which crowd the streets as far as we can see. Quaintest of them all is one supporting a veritable log cabin. Smoke issues from the stick chimney and coon skins are nailed upon the walls, while on the roof is a live coon, which appears to be trying to climb a sapling to get at a frightened and woful-looking Democratic rooster that is tied to a branch. As our barouche makes its way through the crowds the people in the vehicles on the sidewalks and at the windows of the houses cheer their candidate vociferously, and he responds to their greetings with smiles and bows. The little town is full of music, dust and noise.'

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

ENGLISH LITERATURE; By the Rev. Stopford Brooke, M. A. Published by Appleton & Co., New York, and for sale in Pittsburgh by S. A. Clarke & Co., Wood street.

This is one of the "Literature Primers." It is "infinite riches in little room." It sketches English literature from the year 670 down to the present time—giving the salient features of the literature of each age. The style is very fascinating; the author writes with a full understanding and thorough love of his subject. As a comprehensive though brief review, we know of nothing that is its equal.

THE FIVE SENSES OF MAN; by Jules Bernstein. Illustrated with ninety one wood cuts. Published by Appleton & Co., New York, and for sale in Pittsburgh by S. A. Clarke & Co., Wood street.

This is one of the Popular International Scientific series. It treats of the five senses in plain, intelligible, and perspicuous style, and either as a text book for schools or a popular treatise for the general reader is valuable.

THE OLD LADY'S ADVICE.

Sterling Counsel to a Young Woman About to Marry.

The young woman said her lover was coming on the midnight train, and she was going with him to the next station to be married. Whereupon the old lady said she had much experience in the "marrying business," and would give the young lady some advice, and here is what she said:

"Well, child, never marry a railroader, for he is liable to get killed at any time. Besides, he has such a nice chance to flirt.

"Never marry a military man, for he's liable to go to war and get shot. Besides, his gorgeous clothes attract the attention of the women.

"Never marry a hotel-keeper. My first husband was a hotel-keeper and fell through the elevator opening and broke his darned skull. It riles me when I think of that man.

"Never marry a traveling man, for he's always away from hum. Nobody knows what these men are up to while they are away from hum.

"Never marry a steamboater. My second husband was a steamboat captain, and got blowed into 4,000,000 pieces, blast him! I always get terribly mad when I think of that man.

"Never marry a dry goods man. Dyes in cloths is so injurious. They never live half their days.

"Never marry a grocer. They have such a dirty hands. My third husband was a grocer, and such hands as he'd have was 'nuf to sicken a body. He was killed by a molasses barrel fallin' on him. When I think of him I'm completely disgusted.

"Never marry a carpenter. My fourth husband was a carpenter, and fell off a scaffold and was smashed to a jelly. May his soul sleep in peace!"

"Never marry a machinist. My fifth husband was a machinist. I'll never forget the day he was brought home on a board. I didn't recognize him. A belt had come off a pulley and hit him plum in the face, and spread his nose all over his countenance. I promised him on his dyin' bed that I'd never marry another machinist."

Just then the train rolled in, and the old lady asked:

"Child, what business is your lover in?"

"Insurance business."

"Oh, mercy! You don't mean to marry him! My sixth husband was an insurance——"

But the young lady was gone to meet her lover.

"IS A PAINT MULE A HOSS?"

A few Legal Points for the "Jedge."

Nothing is more remarkable than the facility with which the colored population become acquainted with the forms of law, and the practical management of a case in Court. There was a striking illustration of this fact in the Recorder's Court yesterday morning.

The prisoner was accused of riding across one of the bridges on a gait faster than a walk, and the proof was that he galloped a paint mule over Houston street bridge. He managed his own case.

His Honor said: "I think I'll have to fine you, Johnsing."

"May I ax yer a few questions?"

"You may."

"Isn't thar a sign over dat bridge, warning people how dey must ride."

"There is; and that makes you all the more guilty."

"It does, does it? Now, Mr. Recorder, is dat sign what I has to go by? Is dat the law?"

"It is."

"Well, den, dat sign reads, 'Walk your horse or you will be fined.' Don't it, don't it boss?"

"It does, Johnsing."

"Well, the proof is, I was gallopin' a paint mule, wasn't it, boss?"

"Y-a-s, I believe so," said his Honor, beginning to smell a rat.

"Now, if your Honor is willing to admit dat a paint mule ain't no hoss, I'll rest de case heah. Becase you see de law is I shall walk my hoss, and, as it was a paint mule, dat is fatal to the indictment. You is a lawyer, and you ought to know dem pints most as well as myself."

Recorder. "Ahem! For the purpose of this suit, Jonhsing, I'll regard that paint mule as a hoss."

Prisoner. "You Honor will please note my 'ception. I jess want ter make one more pint. Allowin' for the sake of argument, dat a paint mule is a hoss, de sign reads: "Walk your hoss." Now I has de witness here in court to prove dat paint mule hoss was not my hoss at all. De law say walk your hoss."

Recorder. "I'll fine you $10 Johnsing."

And as Johnsing was conducted to the lock-up he expressed great sympathy for the taxpayers, as he intended to bring a suit for $100,000 damages for false imprisonment.

He is, however, at work on the streets.

THE SCHOOLBOY'S DESPAIR.

The Heartlessness of a Maternal Parent Shockingly Illustrated.

A serious phase of disease is that which attacks a boy on a day when he particularly objects to going to school. He tells his mother with confiding frankness peculiar to youth, that he does not feel well this morning. He doesn't know what it is, but he is lame in the joints, his head aches, and he doesn't feel a bit good. He moves about slowly, openly refuses food, looks dejected, negligent, unhappy. Quite frequently he can be heard to sigh. But in all his pain he never forgets the clock. As time advances to the hour which marks school time his symptoms increase. He doesn't say a word about school to his mother. He feels too dreadful, perhaps, to talk of such things. He is certainly in a bad way. His sighs increase as the dreaded time approaches, and the physical symptoms of decay become more and more manifest. But the greatest suffering he endures mentally. Fifteen minutes to nine is the time he should start. It lacks but ten minutes of that time, and nothing has been said to him about getting ready. He wants to believe that he is all right, because that is the prompting of hope which is strong in the youthful breast; but yet he refuses to believe he is, because he fears the reaction of disappointment. Every time he hears his mother's voice he is startled, and every time he detects her looking toward him he feels his heart sink within him. It is a hard thing, indeed, to appear outwardly languid, listless and drooping, when inwardly one is a roaring furnace of agony. But he does it, and does it admirably. It now lacks five minutes of the quarter. Still she says nothing. His nervousness is almost maddening. Four minutes, three minutes, two minutes. One minute. Still she makes no sign. Will his reason forsake him?

It is the quarter. Now he should start according to custom. One would think he had every encouragement now, but he knows that even at five minutes later he can make school by hurrying. The agony of the suspense becomes exquisite. He trembles all over, and he cannot help it. His hair is moist with perspiration. It seems as if he would give up everything and sink into the grave if he could but know the result. How slowly the clock moves. It stares at him with exasperating stoniness. The ten minutes are reached. He breaths easier. Not a word has been said to him about school. His mother sees that he is too ill to go, and she sympathizes with him. Heaven bless her. Did ever a boy have such a good, noble mother as this? Visions of sunny fields and shady woods and running streams unfold before him, stirring the depths of his soul, and filling his eyes with tears of gladness.

"John."

Like a great shock the beautiful pictures fall away and he is shot from the pinnacle of hope into the abyss of despair. There is no mistaking the voice.

"Mercy sakes! here you are not ready for school. Come start your boots."

"I don't feel well enough to go to school," he whines, hardly realizing the dreadful change that has come upon him with such blighting force and swiftness.

"I guess you ain't dying, quite," is the heartless reply. "And if you ain't at school you will be galloping over the neighborhood. Hurry I tell you."

"But it is almost nine o'clock, and I'll be late," he protests in desperation.

"Late?" she repeats, looking at the clock. "You have plenty of time. That clock is nearly a quarter of an hour too fast."

Merciful Heavens! He goes down before the terrific blow in a flash. A quarter of an hour fast! Bleeding at every pore of his heart, stunned by a shock which was as terrible as unexpected, he crawls inside of his jacket and under his hat, and starts on his way in a dazed manner that is pitiful to behold.

THE TURN OF THE YEAR.

Some Suggestions Suitable to the Season.

These dull, drizzling, sunless days, coming with the Equinox,—these suddenly belated mornings and over-hasty evening twilights, which come upon us unprepared to adapt ourselves to the change,—mark much more sharply than usual the succession of the seasons. Even meteorologically the Centennial Year, thus far, seems to distinguish itself from other years. From the middle of May until a week ago, there was no violent atmospheric disturbance; the summer has been of a wholly exceptional character; and the transition stage through which we are now passing does not exhibit its ordinary features. The rise of temperature, at the beginning of Summer, was as gradual and orderly as its fall at present. A comparison with last year, as given day by day, and week by week, in our columns, gives evidence of a remarkable regularity—we might almost say, normal condition—of increase and decrease. The pulse of Nature shows a marked absence of sudden flushes of chills. Its beats quickened steadily with the ripening season, kept at their hight for an unprecedented length of time, and then became slower as the sun retreated from his summer altitude. Now that he has passed from our hemisphere, and is bringing the first faint promises of spring to Chili, Patagonia, and the Australian Continent, we may almost measure his progress by the record of the temperature. After such heats as we have endured, and such a far-spreading cyclone as that which has just extinguished them, we might reasonably expect a strong reactionary cold; but the frosts are still imprisoned in some stronghold of the Northern Rocky Mountains, and September goes out like April, with soft, moist air and reviving pastures.

In spite of the unusual droughts which have visited some parts of the country, the year has been bountiful, and all the political excitement which has been developed up to this time has not made it otherwise than peaceful. It has given us an unusual number of fair, tranquil days. Somehow, in spite of the great prostration in business during the past months, and other material discouragements, a more cheery and hopeful spirit has come upon the people. The days now approaching may be called "sad," in a poetical sense, but they seem brighter than those which last opened for us the leaf-buds and quickened the slumbering life of seeds.

'Summer ebbs;—each day that follows
Is a reflux from on high,
Tending to the darksome hollows
Where the frosts of Winter lie."

So sings Wordsworth; but who can particularly regard the shortening sunshine, the sombre coloring of field and forest, or the certainty of coming storm and cold, when the grim endurance of three years is a little relaxed at last? There is a double tonic in even these gloomy days; for the physical and moral relief come together. The fibers slackened by the long summer begin to recover their elasticity; and, this year, the need and the opportunity for action accompany the returning power. Autumn is only sad to a large class because of the Winter which succeeds; but Winter loses half its terrors when coal and rents drop down toward where they should be, and the chances of labor increase. While this prospect lasts—and every day strengthens the probability that it will last—we may cheerfully watch our planet dipping deeper into its annual shadow. The foliage of our hills may kindle its bonfires of color and be scattered by the keen nor'west winds; frost may scorch the last blossom and the storm of cold be let loose upon the land; we shall only feel that the turn of this year leads us toward a reviving prosperity in the year to come.

Ruskin's Advice to Girls About Dress.

Dress as plainly as your parents will allow you, but in bright colors (if they become you) and in the best materials—that is to say, in those which will wear the longest. When you are really in want of a new dress, buy it (or make it) in the fashion, but never quit an old one merely because it has become unfashionable. And if the fashion be costly, you must not follow it. You may wear broad stripes, or narrow, bright colors, or dark, short petticoats, or long (in moderation), as the public wish you; but you must not buy yards of useless stuff to make a knot or flounce of, nor drag them behind you over the ground, and your walking dress must never touch the ground at all. I have lost much of the faith I once had in the common sense, and even in the personal delicacy of the present race of average English women, by seeing how they will allow their dresses to sweep the streets, as if it is the fashion to be scavengers. Learn dressmaking yourself, with pains and time, and use a part of every day in needlework, making as pretty dresses as you can for poor people who have not the time or taste to make them nicely for themselves. You are to show them in your own wearing what is most right and graceful, and help them to choose what will be prettiest and most becoming in their own station.

THE FRIENDS OF OLD.

Ye friends of old, ye olden friends,
Where are ye all to-day?
Come back again this evening hour,
And tell me where ye stay.

I'm tired to-night! alone I dream,
And, sitting in the twilight shade,
Let memory bring you back once more,
Ere thoughts in sleep are laid.

I'd have ye come in many a throng,
And whisper to me one by one,
Of days agone, of scenes once viewed,
Of things together we have done.

I see ye all; but scattered far,
Some 'cross the seas now roam,
While others in the churchyard sleep,
And others, blessed at home.

Are musing as I am to-night,
O'er days of "Auld Lang Syne,"
And dreaming of past happy hours,
Of youth's bright summer-time.

Latest Advices Concerning Money and Stock Matters.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
WEDNESDAY, September 27, 1876.

Alternate sunshine and rain yesterday did not contribute to active business ventures; yet there was a fair demand at the banks, but an accumulation of funds made it possible to more than supply all demands. Our banks are really plethoric of funds, and are equal to a much larger business than has yet been done of late. The movements toward increased activity are slow, and rather prospective than real as yet. Real estate, however, has a better prospect for sales, and commands bidders, something that did not not happen awhile back. Sales have been made of mill properties of late, which, in view of the times, have brought fair prices. The mill of Rogers & Burchfield, at Apollo, was sold at an advance over the figures expected. In current business all continues quiet.

BUSINESS BRIGHTENING IN BOSTON.

A recent article in the Boston Journal gives so reassuring a review of the improvement in the outlook there for trade and manufactures that we reproduce most of it below:

Many manufacturing establishments, for a long time idle, are starting up; and not a few, under the stimulus of an increased demand, are working extra hours or enlarging their capacity. The experiments which have been made in the introduction of our cotton manufactures into foreign markets have been unexpectedly successful; and the extent to which this department of our export trade has been increased thereby may be learned from the fact that we shipped 75,000,000 yards of cotton goods during the last fiscal year as compared with 28,000,000 the previous year,—the value of these goods being $6,700,000, against $3,200,000. The exhibition which the American manufacturers have been able to make at Philadelphia has not only been productive of some immediate orders, but promises to open up new markets which will be profitable in the future. At the same time the demand for home consumption has become more active owing to the fact that production has been so long checked that the market has been cleared of its surplus, and demand has overtaken supply. There will be business embarrassments and suspensions still; but those who are able to keep on their feet now for a little time longer will find their way steadily brightening before them. Many of the lately suspended mills in North Adams are again running; the great Sprague mills at Providence, which, when fully worked, give employment to 10,000 operatives, are to be put in operation; the large Kentucky-jeans mills at Philadelphia will be restarted in a few days; in our industrial column, from day to day, we have noted many establishments, large and small, which are resuming operations; and the collapse of the coal combination will have the effect of still further stimulating this movement, by enabling a lower cost of production in many departments of manufacture.

NORTHWESTERN WHEAT ITEMS.

A telegram received in this city yesterday from Winona, Minnesota, says: "Average yield of wheat in the State not over 10 bushels; very highest estimate. Minneapolis is buying all the wheat between here and St. Paul. Cannot get anything."

Another dispatch from St. Paul, says: "15,000,000, or 8 bushels per acre. Minneapolis mills taking all the wheat on the river. Cannot get enough to run the mills."

These destiny tidings about short supplies are largely due to the long run of damp weather, which has prevented the farmers from threshing their wheat. The new crop has scarcely begun to move, in consequence, and is much later in coming forward than the average crop of former years.

Late news from Australia indicates that the drouth which threatened the wheat crop of this year is now over, and that there will be a good yield in December next.

Some of the wheat in England weighs not less than 70 pounds to the measured bushel; and a great deal of it weighs 65 pounds. In some places the millers complain that it is so dry that the bran breaks up in grinding. The English crop is undoubtedly short, but the quality is superb. —Chicago Tribune.

EFFECTS OF THE CENTENNIAL.

The Philadelphia Ledger of yesterday says: "We are glad to hear of a very considerable improvement in the trade of this city, and especially in the dry goods trade during the year. This improvement has been more manifest since the opening of the Centennial Exhibition, and the promise is that it will increase to the end of the great show, as the number of visitors daily increases. One first-class house in the staple and fancy dry goods trade on Chestnut street says its sales for the first six months of 1876 exceed in amount the sales of the entire year 1875. Several others on Chestnut, on Market, and on Eighth street report a similarly increased business over last year. Nor is the improvement confined to the retailers. A large wholesale dry goods house on Market street reports not only a materially increased business, but at higher prices than those current a month ago. The demand from both Southern and Western customers is quite marked within the last two or three weeks. The lower grades of cotton goods have advanced in price one or two cents per yard, and what is a most desirable feature in the upward movement is that the transactions are for cash."

NEW ENGLAND MANUFACTURES.

The Springfield (Mass.) Republican presents a cheering review of the manufacturing industries. Woolen manufactures are especially quickened, the cotton measurably so, the paper in a healthy condition, and other industries, except the building trades, in the way of a moderate prosperity. That paper says:

"Wherever capital has shrunk and wages have come down, and great expectations generally been pinched, it is now found possible to renew production on living terms."

Enquiries reach us almost daily about New Haven, Middletown and Willimantic R. R. Bonds. The first mortgage bond interest May and November, with coupons on from 1873 are quoted at 23 cents on the dollar in the New York market—all other issues are worthless.

NEW YORK, September 26, 1876.

Money closed easy at 1½@2. The customs receipts were $248,000. The Assistant Treasurer disbursed $172,000. Prime mercantile paper 4@6. The clearings were $13,000,000. Sterling was firm at 482½@485. Gold opened at 110⅛, and closed at 110. The borrowing rates were 1 to 2. Governments were steady. Railroad bonds were less active, with coal issues generally lower. St. Paul gold 7s advanced to 103½, and Northwest to 103½. Northwest consolidated declined to 94½. State securities were quiet up to noon. The general tendency of stocks, with a few trifling exceptions, was in a downward direction, but the average decline was not very large or remarkable. The heaviest shares were Northwest common and preferred, each of which declined about 1 per cent. from the opening quotations. Harlem sold at 131, as against 133½ yesterday. Rock Island advanced again from 103½ to 104. The market on the second call was dull, but firmer, with quotations generally ⅛@⅜ per cent. above the morning prices. New York Central advanced 1¼ per cent. The coal stocks were dull and not in demand. The recovery in Delaware & Hudson and in Delaware, Lackawanna & Western was only fractional. Michigan Central improved 1 per cent., and Lake Shore ¾ per cent. Toledo & Wabash advanced to 5. New Jersey Central was a little stronger, and St. Paul and Northwestern shares were firmer. The tone of speculation was generally firm during the afternoon until near the close, when prices dropped off ⅛ to ½ per cent. in the general list and 1¼ per cent. in Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, which sold down from 75¾ to 74½. Lake Shore advanced to 52½, and reacted to 52⅛. New York Central rose to 97½ and fell off to 97. At the close Harlem advanced to 132, New Jersey Central to 26⅞ regular and 21 under the rule, and Delaware & Hudson canal to 67⅜. The last named reacted to the close to 67⅛. EGGS—The market continues rather tame, and unchanged; selling at 19a20c.

FLOUR—The market continues firm, with a very fair consumptive demand, but there has been no change in prices for several days. Our dispatches from Chicago, Philadelphia and New York report those markets active and firm at full prices, while Liverpool, on the other hand, was reported dull.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
TUESDAY, September 26, 1876.

The Crude market continues very dull, with prices weak, irregular and lower; United certificates was quoted this P. M. at $3,57½ bid; Union, $3,50; immediate shipment, $3,67½a3,70. Refiners here continue to buy very sparingly, and some of them, it is reported, are shut down.

Refined also very dull; there is a regular stand off between buyers and seller; a Philadelphia dispatch quoted 25¼ bid and 26 asked, with no sales. Refiners appear determined to have their price, 26; while the exporters are just as determined apparently not to pay it if they can help it.

Oil Barrels weak but more active; sales of countries at $1,25; and city make at $1,40. The receipts of Barrels by river on the recent freshets, foot up some 5,500 or 60,000, all of which are consigned to the Standard Combination.

Chicago Lumber Market.

The cargo market was dull on Saturday and easy, but not quotably lower. The offerings were liberal but buyers were holding off, many having supplied themselves previously and country merchants were out of the market, as usual at the close of the week. About 20 cargoes were left over, but small receipts are expected for a few days, as most of the fleet has arrived and sellers were holding lumber at full prices. Joists and scantling were held at $7a7¼, with sales at that range. Common inch was slow at $7⅛a8. Shingles were tolerably steady notwithstanding the heavy offerings during the week, at $1,90a2,20, and choice brands bringing more. Lath were quiet.

Receipts of Pig Metal, etc.

Progress of Summer Packing.

The Chicago Daily Commercial Bulletin contains the following in relation to summer packing and the receipts of hogs:

Summer packing operations are steadily progressing; in fact, increasing weekly—the increased supply of hogs allowing more extensive operations, while there is nearly always a very fair demand for the product. The packing so far shows a considerable increase as compared with last season, and this is also the case at nearly all western packing points and the probability is that the increase during the balance of the summer season will be fully as large relatively as during the past few months. The packing at St. Louis from March 1 to Sept. 1 was 90,351, average 226.43 lbs, against 76,152 hogs, average 228 04 lbs, for the same time last season. In writing of the steadily increasing summer business in packing operations, a southern correspondent of the Cincinnati Price Current, says: "It has also been demonstrated that the packing of hogs in the north can and will be made a continuous one from January to January, and with the prolific nature of the animal no short crop can ever be figured out again without a failure of corn crops for at least two years in succession, and that the improvements made in summer curing will furnish consumers with a prime article of fresh cured meats, far preferable to the old, rusty, hard-salted stuff which has been kept over from a winter's cure." As yet we have heard of no authentic sales of hogs for delivery the coming regular packing season, and operators seem to differ widely in their views as regards the probable opening prices. There seems to be an impression, however, that $5 would be a fair opening price, and the course of values during the past week has been toward this figure. Sellers can find parties willing to contract at this valuation for November and December delivery. Notwithstanding the increased receipts of hogs during the summer months (at other western points as well as Chicago) the general impression seems to be that there will be no short crop this season, but that the supply (as usual) will be about adequate to meet the requirements, while a good many western and southern correspondents seem to think that the supply will be even larger than generally anticipated, and will materially reduce prices.

The Kansas Price Current of a recent date estimates the probable cutting for the winter, at that place, at 150,000 head, or double that of last season, and in this connection adds that "the prices which will be paid will undoubtedly be low, and packers think that the average price will be $4a4,50 per cwt. The hog crop in Kansas and Western Missouri will be large—in fact is large now, and efforts are going to be made to draw receipts from Southwestern Iowa."

A Tennessee correspondent writes as follows: Hogs are more numerous and better cared for than ever before, and North Georgia, North Mississippi, all Tennessee, and part of Arkansas, will produce more hogs than these sections will consume, and as the experiment is tried year after year, and the South once learns that they have the element within themselves to raise all the hogs they need, together with the corn to fatten them, in just such ratio will the demand on the North diminish, until we will have to depend almost entirely on Europe to take the surplus of the North, which she will no doubt do if prices are low enough. With the experience of the past season of high prices for hogs, large losses on the product, increased facilities for making a large and continuous crop of hogs, not only North but South, it would seem that the trade would ponder long before entering the next season at anything over moderate prices, unless a repetition of last season's losses is desired.

The packing to date aggregates about 955,000 hogs against about 603,000 hogs to date at this time last year, and a total packing of 728,781 hogs during the summer of 1876. The packing at Cedar Rapids to date is 79,849 hogs, against 56,863 hogs to date last year.

American Leather in Germany.

In Germany, where leather from the United States pays a duty of 15f per 100 kilo., or 2.0 American pounds, representing 3 to 4 per cent ad valorem competition has become almost impossible, even for the best brands, and would be yet more difficult in a country with a still higher tariff.

Some time since the German leather manufacturers formed organizations and held meetings for the purpose of causing the government to raise the duty on American leather. Resolutions were passed at these meetings to influence governmental parties whose free-trade principles appear to be declining. The agitation, however, does not extend to calf leather and morocco manufacturers as in France, because this branch will never find a market for their products in the United States.

It is therefore necessary for the American tanners to resist, by the active intervention of their Government with the imperial chancellery in Berlin, a rise above 15f per 220 American pounds, which otherwise would be the inevitable result of the agitation of the German tanners. It is absolutely indispensable that the tanners for the United States should make all possible efforts if they desire to conquer the French market and keep that of Germany.—German Cor. Shoe and Leather Reporter.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

☞PROFESSIONAL NOTICE.
Drs. Jordan and Davieson
Principals of the Institution of Anatomy, 807 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, Lecturers on Anatomy, Physiology and Science, inform their friends and patients that they have again opened a branch office for the practice of their profession at No. 2 EIGHTH STREET, PITTSBURGH, PA., where one of the firm may be confidentially consulted, more especially in all those cases of diseases and debility, for the treatment of which they are so justly celebrated. It is too well known that hundreds, nay thousands suffer from the effects of early indiscretion and seek in vain for relief, for none but the educated physician who has made these subjects a specialty is likely to succeed in restoring the patient to health and strength. To all such Drs. Jordan and Davieson offer certain and speedy relief, and undertake no cases but those in which they are able to guarantee a safe, certain and permanent cure. Their important Medical Work may be had from their office, No. 2 Eighth street, on receipt of 25 cents, and also as usual from their head establishment, 1625 Filbert street, Philadelphia. Hours of consultation from 10 A. M. to 2 P. M., and from 5 P. M. to 8 P. M. Sundays from 10 A. M. to 2 P. M. Every case is strictly confidential. d&S

Sneak Thieves.

A couple of men entered Bennett's saloon on Smithfield street, opposite City Hall, last evening, and after setting up the drinks, lounged about for awhile. They finally edged near the end of the counter where Mr. Bennett's coat was hanging and abstracting a pocketbook from it containing something over $50, decamped, and succeeded in escaping.

Died of Lockjaw.

Mention was made in the GAZETTE a few days ago that a man named George Dean, an employee at the old water works, had one of his hands crushed by being caught between the wheel of a wagon and the side of the door. The injury was more serious than was supposed, as lockjaw set in, from the effects of which he died last evening. Mr. Dean's funeral will takd place Thursday, under the auspices of the Orangemen, of which order he was a member.

Baptist Social Union.

The Social Union of the Baptists of Pittsburgh, Allegheny and vicinity met last evening in the Penn avenue Baptist church, East End, Prof. L. H. Eaton in the chair. After introductory services, led by Rev. John Lewis, of Sharpsburg, and a brief address of welcome from the pastor, Rev. J. S. Wrightnour, Rev. B. F. Woodburn, of Allegheny city, and W. H. Price, Esq., of Pittsburgh, gave an interesting account of their visit to the Convention of Social Unions, in Philadelphia. The topic of the the evening was then introduced by Rev. J. S. Wrightnour, "The Fall Campaign in the Churches." He was followed by Revs. Lewis, Mulford and Woodburn, and an interesting and profitable discussion resulted. The next meeting will be held at the Sandusky street church, Allegheny city, next month.

WOMEN TO THE FORE.

Two Officers Outgeneraled and Beaten by them in Allegheny.

Preble avenue, in the Ninth ward, Allegheny, was the scene of unusual excitement on Monday evening. It appears that couple of men were engaged in a quarrel when officer Baily appeared and ordered them to behave, whereupon one of them, Tim Butler, addressed some remarks to the officer which caused him to arrest Butler. As he was walking away with his prisoner a half dozen women attacked him and one of them struck him on the head with a stone. Another struck him in the face with her fist. Officer Wilson then came to his assistance and took the prisoner in charge, while officer Baily tried to keep the women off, but they outgeneraled him and fell upon officer Wilson and knocked him down. The prisoner then escaped. Warrants will probably be issued to-day for the arrest of all the parties in the disturbance.

THE BANK ROBBERS.

No Clue yet of the Desperadoes—Cronin Improving.

Nothing further has been developed in regard to the attempted bank robbery on Sunday night. No clue to the robbers has been found, or at least none which it is advisable to make public.

The prospects for the recovery of Lieut. Cronin are now much more favorable than they were, the physicians last evening expressing great hopes that he will survive. It is earnestly to be hoped that he will, as he was one of the most active and efficient officers on the force.

On Monday detectives O'Mara, Demmell and McGovern went to Rochester in their search, and there hired a two horse barouche, promising to return it by evening. Instead of doing so, they drove to the city. Yesterday the owner of the turnout came to the city in search of it, and, calling upon Chief Hartzell, said that he felt sure that he could give a description of the bank robbers. He described very accurately the three detectives named, and said they had secured a team from him and started north. While he was talking to the chief the detectives entered the office to report. A more astonished and disconcerted man than the hero of the horses was never seen. He stopped his tale abruptly, and returned home with his team with enlightened views of the operations of detectives.

THE WEST PENN INSTITUTION

For the Deaf and Dumb.

This institution, for which the Legislature made an appropriation last winter of $16,000, is to be opened about October 25th. Unexpected delays prevented an earlier opening.

Having been authorized by the Trustees to do so, the President, Rev. John G. Brown, has secured the lease of Mr. Shaw's hotel with 37 acres of land attached, at Turtle Creek. This building, a large brick one, is in a pleasant and healthy location, and it is the best that could be secured for the purposes of the school. It will be occupied for a number of years until a permanent building for the institution is erected.

The new Institution is designed to meet the wants of the mute children residing in the western part of the State, of whom the number is quite large. It receives the cordial co-operation of the Philadelphia Institution, which already has as many as it can well provide for in its own part of the State. The Pittsburgh day-school so long carried on by the Central Board of Education, has been discontinued, and the pupils will be transferred to the new institution.

Pupils will be received on the same terms as at the Philadelphia Institution.

Applications should be made immediately to James H. Logan, Acting Principal, 170 Arch street, Allegheny; or to the President Rev. John G. Brown, Fortieth street, Pittsburgh.

A DISAPPOINTED CROWD.

Hearing in the Case of the Paddy Magee Riot Postponed.

Four o'clock yesterday afternoon was the time fixed for the hearing of the parties charged with participating in the riot at the corner of Washington street and Webster avenue, on last Saturday week. The interest in the case was great, and by three o'clock the Mayor's office and the vestibule outside, were crowded with a motley assortment of individuals, all engaged in earnest conversation, or ejaculatory and demonstrative declamation, such as is wont to be seen an hour or two before Councils are to elect a petty officer, or to pass upon some matter of popular and absorbing interest. By four o'clock the large room designed for the Mayor's court was crowded to repletion, and many persons were inside the railing, a dozen or two lawyers being conspicuous in front of the clerk's desk.

About ten minutes after four o'clock the Mayor proceeded to his chair, while a couple of reporters took positions at the desk eager for the coming item. His Honor lifted his gavel, gave two or three raps with it, and immediately had the closest attention. He looked over the large and anxious crowd, with a merry twinkle in his eye, and then announced:

"By consent of counsel on both sides in this case, the hearing is postponed until this day two weeks, at ten o'clock in the morning."

A worse sold crowd was never seen in the city. But the humor of the proceeding was appreciated immediately, and a broad smile that quickly lengthened into a laugh spread over the countenances of all present.

The reporter of the "only," who was present with enough paper to take down every word that was said, was the only one that didn't appreciate the joke. He thinks it was a put up job to let the evening men get the item first, and spoil his thunder.

As announced the hearing will take place on Tuesday, October 10th, at 10 A. M.

Court Brevities.

JUDGE EWING announced yesterday that the Quarter Session Court would be in session Thursday.

THE will of Kate Brown, late of McKeesport, dated August 30, 1876, of which Philip Hoerr is executor, was filed for probate yesterday.

THOS. D. ADAMS, of Franklin, Venango county, filed a petition yesterday, for the adjudication of himself in bankruptcy, which was referred to the register.

THERE was filed in the Register's office yesterday the will of Jno. W. Bennett, late of Mifflin township, dated September 8, 1876, of which James Wilson is executor.

THE will of James Briggs, of Pittsburgh, was filed in the office of Register Gray for probate yesterday. It is dated July 9, 1872, and appoints Susanna Briggs, his wife, executrix.

JUDGE STOWE yesterday rendered a decision in the Magee-McCarthy case, setting the demurrer of respondent aside and the record is now complete. The case will be argued at the coming term of the Supreme Court.

MR. CHARLES GOODENOUGH, a gentlemany and accommodating deputy clerk in the office of S. C. McCandless, Esq., Clerk of the District Court of the United States, is absent on a visit to New Lisbon, Ohio. He is the guest of Judge Wisden. Good enough for Charley.

E. A. L. ROBERTS, the "Torpedo King" of oildom, has instituted proceedings against eighty additional defendants to those already reported for infringing on his patent. It is said that his next move will be an action against General Newton and the Government authorities for using the "water tamp" in blowing up Hell Gate.

JOHN ALEXANDER, of the First district, Third ward, Pittsburgh, presented a petition to the Common Pleas No. 1, yesterday, stating that he had not been registered or assessed since 1874; that prior to September 6, he made application to Benton Patterson, Assessor, to be registered and assessed, and that he neglected to do it. He has lived in the district about six years. The Court ordered that he be assessed as a laborer and allowed to pay taxes.

PROCEEDINGS were instituted in Common Pleas No. 1 yesterday by John Barton, Esq., on behalf of Mrs. Margaret E. Gardner and Martha L. Gardiner, widow and minor daughter of James E. Gardiner, against the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St. Louis Railway Company to recover damages. James E. Gardner was a brakeman on a freight train on the Pan Handle road, and was killed in the tunnel on the 13th inst. It is alleged his death was the result of negligence on the part of the employees of the company. A capias was issued, and bail given in the sum of $3,000.

MESSRS. D. D. MCCOLLUM and Wm. Hart, of Washington borough, who have been employed by United States Marshal Hall for the last fourteen months, at the distillery and warehouse in Brownsville, of Samuel Thompson, have just been discharged, Mr. Thompson having effected a settlement with the Government. Mr. Thompson's crookedness, for which the Government laid its heavy hands upon him, will have cost him nearly one hundred thousand dollars. The direct pay to the Government is $50,000, and the costs, loss of time, attorneys, fees, &c., will probably amount to nearly as much more.

A BULLET IN HIS BRAIN.

A Well Known Attorney Shoots Himself in Front of His Own Residence.

Mr. Henry L. McCollough, a prominent member of the bar of this county, shot himself about half-past nine o'clock on Monday night, in front of his residence, at No. 129 North avenue, near Irwin avenue, Allegheny. At half-past seven o'clock that evening a gentleman took to Mr. McCollough's dwelling a lot of goods that his wife, who had been with him to the Centennial, had forgotten and left there. The visitor, who was a friend of Mrs. McC.'s, had brought them home at her request. It is said that Mr. McCollough was under the influence of liquor, and that when the gentleman left the goods the former ordered him from the house. He went, and Mr. McCollough followed him in a few minutes. The latter, thinking he saw the visitor in the Park, discharged a shot at him from his revolver. It proved to be another person, however, and as he was not disposed to allow himself to be made a target of he walked over to Mr. McCollough and was going to bounce him. An explanation was tendered, and it being satisfactory the stranger went away. Mr. McCollough then went down to the railroad track, which is near his residence, jumped on a freight train and rode off. He returned home about half past nine o'clock, but his wife, frightened by his conduct, refused to let him in the house. He threatened to shoot himself, but the threat had no effect on her, as he had made them before. Drawing his revolver he attempted to deceive her by pointing it in the air and discharging it. The hammer failed to explode the cartridge. He cocked the weapon again, pointed it toward his head, and this time it went off, the bullet embedding itself in his brain. He was carried into the house and Drs. Mowry and Hartzell summoned. The wound is probably a fatal one, though the physicians say there are some chances of recovery. If a sac should form around the bullet, as was the case with Coaruth, who was shot by Landis, at Vineland, N. J., he will likely get well. Should inflammation ensue he will die. Mr. McCollough says he did not intend to shoot himself, and the circumstances seem to corroborate his statement.

Coughs and colds are quickly cured by using DR. SCHERER'S WILD CHERRY LUNG CORDIAL. 25, 50 cents and $1 per bottle. Sold by druggists, and at Dr. Scherer's office, 174 Smithfield street, Pittsburgh.

PROTECT YOUR FEET.

Boots and Shoes For the Million—How to Preserve Health and Save Money—The New Allegheny Headquarters.

A good pair of boots or shoes will save a doctor's bill many a time and will do more toward restoring and maintaining health than all the pills and potions known to the medical fraternity. Hence it becomes a matter of prime importance to every one who would save his pocket and his body, to know just where he can purchase the necessary covering for his feet,—the best in quality and the cheapest in price. That question is answered by directing the inquirer to the splendid new business headquarters of Mr. G. D. Simen, at the corner of Ohio and Sandusky streets, Allegheny. Mr. Simen has long been engaged in the business in that neighborhood, and has, by fair dealing with all, built up such a trade that he has been compelled to secure one of the largest storerooms in the city. To accomplish this object he erected a three story block of buildings on the corner mentioned, which forms a conspicuous and imposing architectural ornament to that portion of the city. The lower floor of this block has been thrown into one magnificent salesroom, and here Mr. Simen is found at home to his myriads of patrons.

With his increased facilities this gentleman has been enabled to lay in a new and much larger stock than he has ever exhibited heretofore. There can be found in it the daintiest white slipper for the foot of the smallest cherub of the household, up to the capacious boot or shoe for the largest specimen of humanity. The goods embrace also all grades of men's, women's, youths' and children's boots and shoes. They are of all qualities, from the finest dress boot to the heaviest brogans. In the line of men's brogans a specialty is made and the stock exhibited is one of the most varied ever opened west of the mountains. In ladies shoes—consisting of slippers, gaiters of all styles, fine French morocco walking shoes, and shoes for indoors and outdoors — the stock is especially varied and attractive. In men's fine calf boots, heavy hob-nailed brogans, English walking shoes, Congress gaiters, pegged and sewed boots, there is a full supply, so that every taste and requirement can be suited. In children's shoes for boys and girls the same variety is apparent. There is, indeed, no style of boot or shoe for any person, young or old, which cannot be found in this assortment.

Mr. Simen has thus prepared himself for the fall trade by laying in a superb stock; but he does better than that. He offers lower prices than have ever heretofore been reached. He is enabled to do this because he buys direct from the manufacturer—paying no "middleman's" profits—and buys for cash, thus securing the very lowest possible rate. His customers have the advantage of this plan of doing business. Every article is guaranteed to be first class, and his prices are marvelously low. He deals fairly with all, and when he says an article is good, that recommendation can be depended upon. A look over his stock and his prices will prove that the rarest bargains are offered at his house.

We congratulate him upon his occupancy of such spacious and elegant quarters, and commend him to the general public.

FUNERAL OF DR. HOWARD.

The Services at the Second Presbyterian Church—A Large Congregation Present—Addresses and a Biographical Sketch.

The remains of the late Rev. W. D. Howard, D. D., pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, were interred yesterday forenoon in Allegheny Cemetery. The funeral took place from the edifice at the corner of Penn avenue and Seventh street, in which Rev. Howard so acceptably preached the gospel for a quarter of a century. The casket containing the body had been removed from the late residence of the deceased, at No. 64 Beach street, Allegheny, to the lecture room of the church, the walls of which were hung with crape. The room was also handsomely decorated with flowers. The casket was covered with broadcloth and Lyons silk velvet, and was draped with festoons bound with heavy silk fringe and tassels attached. Within, the upholstering was of the most elaborate character. Upon the silver plate on the lid of the coffin were inscribed the words "William D. Howard, D. D., Born July 28th, 1814; Died Sept, 22nd, 1876." The only elaboration on the plate was a representation of a sheaf of wheat, emblematical of the life and death of the deceased; full of years and ripe for the harvest. At nine o'clock the doors were thrown open, and hundreds who had known Rev. Howard in life passed in to look upon him in death. For over an hour the stream of people that poured in front of the casket suffered no diminution. Shortly after ten o'clock it was carried up into the main audience room of the church and set down in front of the pulpit. At the head of it was placed a cross, and at the foot a crown of flowers. The pulpit, organ and chairs were all in sombre black. About the coffin and on either side of the desk were baskets of flowers. A card on the wall in the rear of the pulpit contained these words:

"Our pastor's last text:—

"Then shall the dust return to the earth as it was; and the spirit shall return unto the God who gave it.

"Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth.—Eccl. xii-7 and 1.

"These are the words which I spake unto you while I was yet with you."

There was an immense congregation pres[illegible] occupying all the available space, and [illegible] interest was paid to the solemn [illegible] which were commenced by the [illegible]ging the hymn—

[illegible] blest the righteous when he dies."

[illegible] B. Snyder, of the North avenue [illegible]urch, Allegheny, then read the [illegible]lm, "The Lord is my shepherd, I [illegible] want," and followed it by offering [illegible]rnest prayer. Dr. Scovel read the [illegible]ing and concluding verses of [illegible] Ages," which were sung by the [illegible] congregation. Taking for his [illegible] twenty-fourth verse of the fifth [illegible] of Genesis, "And Enoch walked [illegible]d, and he was not; for God took [illegible] Prof. S. J. Wilson, of the Western [illegible]al Seminary, delivered a brief [illegible] affecting sermon. In their life and [illegible] compared Dr. Howard to Enoch, [illegible] that as the latter had been translat[illegible] very midst of his usefulness, so had [illegible]er in the midst of a good, active [illegible] life, been taken by the great Head [illegible]urch to Himself. Almost from his [illegible]dy, almost with the pen in his [illegible]most before the ink on his manu[illegible]as dry, he had been taken from the [illegible] which he so much loved. No death [illegible] more beautiful. Not an hour had [illegible]ed between his work here on earth [illegible] departure to his higher ministra[illegible] Heaven.

[illegible] E. Swift, of the First Presbyterian [illegible] Allegheny, read a biographical [illegible] of the deceased. Dr. Scovel, in introducing Dr. Swift to the audience, said that Dr. Howard had performed a like service over the remains of Rev. Swift's father. After reciting the birth, education, ordination, &c., of the deceased, Rev. Swift related incidents illustrative of the leading traits in the character of the deceased minister. He referred to his popularity shortly after he arrived in this city, which was proved by the large attendance upon a series of lectures he delivered to young men in 1850. But he did not court popular applause, and hated anything sensational. His life so quiet and his manner so unassuming might be summed up in a very few words. Earnest, practical work, toilsome visitation, healthful growth and Christian labor. Yet he was constantly receiving congratulatory evidences of his popularity, and here Dr. Swift gave some instances in which he had been called to high positions in the church, and had been assigned prominent and honorable duties. His preaching was logical, clear and fervent. Just the style of preaching for the men and women of our times, yet he was always disappointed with his own pulpit efforts. He had a charming voice, as musical and clear as the grand old bell in the tower of Christ Church, Philadelphia. Alluding to his liberal use of manuscript in the pulpit, and the well-known prejudice against this habit existing in the minds of many persons, Dr. Swift said that all complaints were silenced when Dr. Howard came, "for, he knows how to read," as the congregation explained. While he kept abreast of the times in his scientific studies, the speaker regarded him as one of the finest scholars in the history of English literature in the Presbyterian Church. Dr. Swift gave a most affecting description of the late scenes of the life of the good man, and closed with this quotation: "Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like his."

Dr. D. X. Junkin also delivered a short address, incorporating in it a number of incidents in the life of the deceased. Dr. Jacobus delivered the closing prayer, the choir sang "Jesus lover of my soul," the congregation was dismissed, and the funeral concourse moved off to Allegheny Cemetery, where the body was deposited in its final resting place. The following gentlemen, officers of the congregation, officiated as pall-bearers: Elders—D. McLain, John F. Loy, D. McClintock, J. S. Maple, D. Cooper, S. McMasters, Wm. Bakewell, Jno. Davis. Deacons—Alex. McLean, Wm. McCreery. Trustees—R. C. Loomis, Robert Lea.

PRESBYTERIAL.

Session of Monongahela Presbytery—The Case of Mrs. Gormly—Ordination.

Monongahela Presbytery held a meeting yesterday in the Seventh U. P. Church, on Forty-fourth street, Lawrenceville. The matter of the petition of Wm. M. Gormly, that Presbytery require the session of the Third U. P. Church, of which Mr. Gormly and his wife are members, to rescind their action, which is alleged to be a virtual slander of Mrs. Gormly, was disposed of by directing Mr. Gormly to present his case before the session of his own church, and demand a trial by it of Mrs. Gormly, and if she is found guilty, then to carry it up to the Presbytery, when it can act in the matter. This difficulty originated on September 18th, 1874, when Mrs. Gormly presented a paper [illegible] the session of the Third chur[illegible] trial of Mr. Thomas Gamble [illegible] and retail liquor dealer, on th[illegible] he could not carry on such a [illegible] be a consistent Christian. Th[illegible] swered that it would suspend [illegible] membership of the church, but [illegible] lowing day, September 19, a re[illegible] passed by the session charging [illegible] with malice in presenting her paper, prosecuting Mr. Gamble, and retaining him in the church.

In the afternoon Presbytery disposed of a lot of routine business, and in the evening Rev. A. G. McCoy, of Monmouth Presbytery, was installed as pastor of the church in which yesterday's meeting was held. The ordination services were conducted by members of the Presbytery.

To Be or Not to Be.

Shakspeare said many good things, and discussed matters in quite a philosophic way, but had he lived in our day and in our city, most likely the burden of his debate would have been whether, it were better for the man or youth needing a suit of new clothes to go to some merchant tailoring house of aristocratic pretensions, pay one price for the suit and another price for the name of having it manufactured at an establishment with a high-sounding name, or to go to Eisner & Phillips, corner Wood street and Fifth avenue, get a suit ready-made with equally as good material, and fit just as good with only one price to pay and that a very low one. There are more curious things in the clothing business than are dreamed of in the philosophy of many, which can be explained by a visit to this reputable clothing house.

FORBES STREET EXTENSION.

Another Meeting of Protesting Citizens Last Evening—A Different Outlet Proposed—No Definite Action.

An adjourned meeting of citizens was held last evening at the Ann street school house to hear the report of the committee appointed to examine as to the best route for the opening of Forbes street extension, and to protest against the line decided upon by the City Engineer and Councils.

Mr. J. C. Bindley was called to the chair, and Mr. J. A. Sargent elected Secretary.

The report of the committee was then read and the plans submitted by it examined by the audience.

It will be remembered that several meetings of citizens were held during the summer to protest against the route proposed. The citizens and the committee contend that Diamond street is the natural outlet of Forbes street, and that turning it into Fifth avenue will entail a greater expenditure than they can stand at present.

The committee reported that they found two separate routes advocated as outlets for Forbes street. One is that presented by the Viewers, in accordance with the ordinance of Councils, which takes the street into Fifth avenue at the corner of Ross street. The other extends Forbes street in a direct line until it ends in the open space caused by the intersection of Try street and Old avenue.

The first route, the committee claims, will be a deflection from the present line of Forbes street, almost amounting to a right angle, and would in effect end Forbes street at its present terminus on Boyd street, and extend Fifth avenue to that point. To avoid confusion the street so opened should be called Fifth avenue, being a prolongation of that avenue in a straight line.

The estimated damage of the opening is $57,000. The additional cost of grading, paving, &c., will be $25,000, making the total cost $82,000. It is further claimed that other damages will be incurred shortly, as the brow of Fifth avenue will be cut down, and the avenue widened, a large portion of the cost of which will be assessed upon Forbes street, as the last street opening into the avenue, and hastening the necessity of the work. The committee when it commenced an investigation of the matter was in favor of the Fifth avenue outlet, but after examination become convinced that the Try street opening is the most feasible, and the natural outlet. The report takes occasion to lament that the city authorities are disposed to ignore the excellent precedents heretofore established of endeavoring as near as possible to have streets run in a straight line, and earnestly recommends that the rule be not disregarded in reference to Forbes street.

After a careful estimate the committee reaches the conclusion that the damage to private property by the Try street opening will not amount to more than $8,000, while the total cost, including grading, paving, &c., will not exceed $25,000—a considerable difference between that and $82,000 for the other route. Besides there will not be the additional and unknown expense that will be incurred when Fifth avenue is widened and the crown cut down from fifteen to twenty-five feet.

Most of those present were favorably impressed by the committee's report, but there being one or two present who vehemently advocated the Fifth avenue opening, it was decided to adjourn until next Tuesday evening, when it is expected there will be a larger turnout of those interested in the matter.

THE SUICIDE EPIDEMIC.

A Travelling Salesman Makes a Desperate Attempt to Kill Himself.

George W. Stoeckel has been for several years past a travelling salesman for Messrs. B. A. & B. F. Fahnestock, wholesale druggists, and manufacturers of white lead, of this city. He has always done his duty well and been respected and trusted by his employers and numerous friends. He has been in the habit, for the last three or four years, of stopping at the St. James hotel, on Liberty street, near the Union Depot, when in the city, and was well known there. On the 8th of the present month he reached the city from a trip of several months duration, and again put up at the St. James. During his stay he drank deeply, something that he had never before been in the habit of doing. About five o'clock last evening he came down stairs from his room and passed through the office of the hotel. The clerk noticed that he looked very pale, and that his eyes had a wild, haggard look, and that there was blood on his clothing. He exclaimed in surprise, "Why, George, what is the matter with you?" and took hold of him. Stoeckel, however, jerked away from him without making an answer, and passed out the door. On the pavement he met a policeman who noticed his appearance and weakness, and took him to the Central Station. Dr. McCoy, lockup physician, was summoned, and found that Stoeckel had nine or ten knife wounds in his left breast, none of them being very deep or serious individually, but all combined making what may form a fatal injury. Stoeckel admitted that he had inflicted the wounds himself, but would give no explanation of his reasons for doing so. After receiving surgical attention he was removed to Passavant's Hospital, where he now lies.

He is forty-five or fifty years of age, intelligent and a person of good address. He has a son who owns a drug store in Reading, at which place Stoeckel himself resides. His attempt was undoubtedly caused by the depressing effects of protracted intoxication.

VEGETINE

Purifies the Blood, Renovates and Invigorates the Whole System.

Its Medicinal Properties are

ALTERATIVE, TONIC, SOLVENT AND DIURETIC.

VEGETINE is made exclusively from the juices of carefully selected barks, roots and herbs, and so strongly concentrated that it will effectually eradicate from the system, every taint of Scrofula, Scrofulous Humor, Tumors, Cancer, Cancerous Humors, Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Syphilitic Diseases, Canker, Faintness at the Stomach, and all diseases that arise from impure blood. Sciatica, Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Gout and Spinal Complaints, can only be effectually cured through the blood.

For Ulcers and Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, Pustules, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, Tetter, Scaldhead and Ringworm, VEGETINE has never failed to effect a permanent cure.

For Pains in the Back, Kidney Complaints, Dropsy, Female weakness, Leucorrhœa, arising from internal ulceration, and uterine diseases and General Debility, VEGETINE acts directly upon the causes of these complaints. It invigorates and strengthens the whole system, acts upon the secretive organs, allays inflammation, cures ulceration, and regulates the bowels.

For Catarrh, Dyspepsia, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Headache, Piles, Nervousness and General prostration of the Nervous System, no medicine has ever given such perfect satisfaction as the VEGETINE. It purifies the blood, cleanses all the organs, and possesses a controlling power over the nervous system.

The remarkable cures effected by VEGETINE have induced many physicians and apothecaries whom we know to prescribe and use it in their own families.

In fact, VEGETINE is the best remedy yet discovered for the above diseases, and is the only reliable BLOOD PURIFIER yet placed before the public.

UNQUALIFIED APPRECIATION.

BOSTON, Nov. 18, 1875.

H. R. STEVENS, Esq.:

Dear Sir—During the past five years I have had an [illegible] opportunity to judge of the merit of VEGETINE. My wife has used it for complaints attending a lady of delicate health, with more beneficial results than anything else which she ever tried. I have given it to my [illegible] under almost every circumstance attending a large family, and always with marked benefit. [illegible] it myself with such great benefit that I [illegible] find words to express my unqualified appreciation of its goodness.

While performing my duties at a Police office in this city, it has been my lot to fall in with a great deal of sickness. I have invariably recommended VEGETINE, and I never knew of a case where it did not prove all that was claimed for it. Particularly in cases of [illegible] or impure blood [illegible] its effects are truly wonderful, and for all complaints arising from an impure state of the bowels it appears to work like a charm, and I do not believe there are any circumstances in which VEGETINE can be used with injurious effects, and it will always afford me pleasure to give any further information as to what I know about VEGETINE.

WM. B. HILL,
Police station 4.

CANNOT BE EXCELLED.

CHARLESTOWN, March 19, 1869.

H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir—This is to certify that I have used your blood preparation (VEGETINE) in my family for several years, and think that, for Scrofula or Cancerous Humors, or Rheumatic Affections, it cannot be excelled; and, as a blood-purifier and spring medicine, it is the best thing I have ever used; and I have used almost everything. I can cheerfully recommend it to any one in need of such a medicine.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. A. A. DINSMORE,
19 Russell street.

A Source of Great Anxiety.

My daughter has received great benefit from the use of the VEGETINE. Her declining health was a source of great anxiety to all of her friends. A few bottles of the VEGETINE restored her health, strength and appetite.
